

ZEB LANDSMAN

Zeb Landsman is a partner in the litigation department at the New York law firm of Becker, Glynn, Melamed & Muffly, where he focuses on international commercial disputes.

A 1990 graduate of Yale Law School, Zeb started his career at Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison, and also spent time as a staff attorney for the Criminal Appeals Bureau of the Legal Aid Society, where he raised Constitutional and other challenges to the convictions of incarcerated individuals.

In addition to lawyering, Zeb served as a Town Councilman in Telluride, Colorado, where he sponsored land preservation and civil rights legislation. He occasionally teaches Constitutional Law in a New York City high school.